ith 70,000 pages of tax code, John Pollock, president of Financial Gravity, said it's easy to overlook potential deductions but said don't bank on the IRS to point them out if you miss them.

"You need someone that understands it, wants to do it ethically, legally and morally; and will help you find all these little things," he said.

Here's our top 5 overlooked tax deductions:

1. Babysitting costs

In order to claim the up to $3000 per child credit, you must be working or doing charity work when the babysitting and daycare expenses occur. Getting a babysitter to go out on Friday night doesn't count.

2. Gambling losses

Whether you were dealt a bad hand, picked the wrong numbers, or the wrong horse; the IRS allows you to write off your gambling losses. However, it can never exceed your winnings. So if you won $500 dollars, the most you can write off is $500 in losses.

3. Weight loss programs

The key is you need your doctor to write you a prescription. The same goes for programs that help you quit smoking. Pollock said even massages can be tax write-offs as long as they are at a doctor's order.

4. Paying your kids

From Beer to Babysitting: The Top 5 most overlooked tax deductions!

Article courtesy of CBS - Dallas via "The Rundown"

Pollock said there are major tax benefits to hiring your own under-age children as bona-fide employees if you own a small business. For starters, as long as your child doesn't earn more than $6,100 they won't owe any federal employment or income tax.

Plus if you put them on the payroll, you can use that as a deduction. Pollock said while you need to have your own business, he said his clients are often surprised to discover they are business owners.

"If you have a separate house or separate real estate that you rent, that's a business for example," he said. "So a lot of people have businesses that they don't realize they have business."

5. Free beer

If you are a small business owner and you offer your customers a free drink to improve business, the courts have ruled you can write off a free cold one as a tax deduction.

"Pollock said there are major tax benefits to hiring your own under-age children as bona-fide employees if you own a small business. For starters, as long as your child doesn't earn more than $6,100 they won't owe any federal employment or income tax."

Gov. Walker visits Children's to sign bill that protects jobs of live organ donors

Governor Scott Walker visited Children's Hospital of Wisconsin on Friday, April 1, to sign a bill into law that requires businesses of a certain size to provide up to six weeks of unpaid leave to workers who elect to be a bone marrow or organ donor.

"There's roughly 2,000 people in Wisconsin and 120,000 people in the country every year who need organ donations," Walker said. In Wisconsin, 124 of the 565 organ transplants include a living donor.

"We'd love to have 100 percent of people in this state signing up to donate, but to those individuals willing to make a live donation of an organ or bone marrow, we should remove every barrier possible," Walker said.

"If someone is willing to donate, just like someone who is willing to serve on our armed forces, that's a special kind of employee, and we want to make sure we honor and respect those employees."

Peggy Troy, Children's CEO and president, said the bill is extremely important to the children waiting on transplant lists.

"Here at Children's, we're focused on kids and focused on supporting them in every possible way we can," Troy said.

"This bill will make it easier for people to be able to donate while they have their full-time jobs."

Children's hosted a news conference in January to announce the bill, which was proposed by Sen. Alberta Darling and Rep. Cory Mason.

Darling's husband was on the organ donation waiting list when he passed away in 2015.

On average, 22 people die each day while waiting for a transplant, according to the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services.

About Bill 517

Before the bill, employers were required to provide medical leave to their employees, but it did not allow that leave to cover a bone marrow or organ donor. The new bill:

- Allows an employee to take no more than six weeks of unpaid leave for the purpose of a bone marrow or organ donation.

- Only covers the time necessary for the employee to undergo

Wisconsin Restaurant Industry Leader Honored with Faces of Diversity Award

Cherry Perkins from Mr. Perkins' Family Restaurant was selected as the Wisconsin finalist for the National Restaurant Association Educational Foundation's Faces of Diversity – American Dream award.

The American Dream award celebrates members of the restaurant and foodservice industry who are the best representation of how, through hard work and determination, one can achieve the American Dream in this industry.

Her restaurant, Mr. Perkins Family Restaurant., the iconic soul food establishment in Milwaukee, has been a beloved destination for celebrities, politicians, sports stars and of course their loyal and diverse customer base.

The restaurant was opened in 1969 by Willie Perkins, Sr. and his wife Hilda.

In 1999 Cherry and her husband, Will Perkins, Jr., took over daily operations from Will's parents.

Ms. Perkins had a successful career in corporate America, but soon embraced the bustling restaurant business. Sadly, her husband passed away in 2010 after battling cancer.

She made the brave decision to continue operating the restaurant even though the economic climate was particularly challenging.

It hasn't always been easy, but she has succeeded and along the way she's helped others by being a mentor and a leader.

Ms. Perkins was encouraged to apply for the award by WRA staff who were impressed with her positivity and tenacity.

In her application Ms. Perkins described the American Dream as "the ideal that everyone should have equal opportunities to achieve his or her goals, live a prosperous life and be financially able to do so." WRA's President and CEO, Ed Lump, shared this about Ms. Perkins, "Cherry is a warm and genuine person who welcomes customers as though they are family or dear friends visiting her own home.

It may not have originally been her dream to assume the sometimes overwhelming responsibilities of keeping Mr. Perkins Family Restaurant going, but she has achieved so much and deserves to be recognized." The national winners for the Faces of Diversity American Dream Awards were honored during the National Restaurant Association's annual Public Affairs Conference, April 12 – 13 in Washington, DC. Perkins did not win at the national level.

For more information and for a list of the national winners of the Faces of Diversity Awards, visit the National Restaurant Association's web site at <http://www.nraef.org/Build-Talent/Industry-Awards/Faces-of-Diversity/Recipients>

Women-owned businesses increase, but not their bottom line

Story by the Huffington Post via “The Rundown”
According to savvy marketing firms and the government, women-owned businesses are on the rise.

The 2012 U.S. Census states that women own 9.9 million companies in the U.S. That's approximately 36% of all the companies in America, and they generate $1.4 trillion in revenues annually. But the U.S. Women's Chamber of Commerce in their report, Wake-Up Call, Opportunity Lost, indicated that's only 4.23% of all the revenues generated in America.

The 2014 State of Women-Owned Businesses Report from American Express stated that there are approximately 9.1 million women-owned businesses in the United States, which is a 68 percent increase since 1997.

So the trillion-dollar question is, "Where is the money?"

Sometimes the business of doing business keeps us so busy that we can't seem to find the time to step outside of our immediate environment to see what's happening around us in our respective industries.

But the shrewd business owner, regardless of gender, stays current with industry developments and maintains their relevancy by being an innovative and a visionary trendsetter.

If you actually want to find out where the money is, ask yourself the following questions:

Is your business making money? Do you have a growing customer base? Are your customers so satisfied with your services that they return?

Are your employees satisfied? Are you satisfied?

Are your average receipts down, while all other business types receipts are going up?

Take a look at your last three tax returns and revisit your business plan financials to measure your profitability.

WalletHub recently came up with a list of the 10 Best Cities for Women-Owned Businesses:

1. Nashville, Tenn.
2. Chattanooga, Tenn.
3. Columbus, Ohio

4. Memphis, Tenn.
5. Milwaukee, Wis.
6. Rochester, N.Y.
7. Kansas City, Mo.
