Fatherhood was the theme of this year's celebration of Black freedom

“Celebrating The Journey of Fatherhood” was a fitting theme for this year's annual celebration of the Emancipation Proclamation and of Black freedom, OUR Fourth of July! Fathers with their children were in abundance on last Sunday, Father's Day, joining festival goers in a show of unity and history that was on full display on Martin Luther King Drive. More importantly there was no “drama,” as the event was held without any major incidents.

Paying tribute to the Negro Leagues and it's legends

Special baseball game will honor those who were “the best,” but never allowed to play “the rest”

Some of the best Black baseball players you've probably never learned about in school were part of a fraternity that should never have existed in a country that never appreciated or allowed the “best” to challenge the “rest.”

In fact, not only was Black America cheated out of an opportunity to showcase its best, but because of institutional racism, America's favorite past time until the 1950s was a snack instead of a full meal.

Would Babe Ruth have held the home run record if Josh Gibson had been able to play in the “major leagues?” Was there a better pitcher than Satchel Paige?

For that matter, was Jackie Robinson, the first Black player allowed to play in the major leagues, the best the Negro Leagues had to offer? Most experts say no.

He was chosen from the Negro League fraternity because he was college educated, articulate and agreed not to spit back at the racists who spat at him during games because of the color of his skin, ignoring his immense talent.

Robinson was a Martin Luther King follower who bit his tongue, letting his skills speak for him.

Sen. Taylor proposes slavery ban

Bill would remove slavery from state constitution

Sen. Lena Taylor

(MADISON) – Today, State Senator Lena Taylor (D-Milwaukee) announced she will propose a constitutional amendment to ban slavery, which is still permitted for Wisconsin prisoners.

Article I, Section 2 of Wisconsin's Constitution states, “There shall be neither slavery, nor involuntary servitude in this state, otherwise than for the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.” The constitution leaves the door open for slavery in prisons.

“Wisconsin's constitutional slavery ban shouldn't come with a loophole,” said Taylor. “Slavery is never okay, even in prison.”

Through the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln freed slaves in the south.

Notice of the Emancipation Proclamation didn't make its way to Galveston, Texas until June 19, 1865, when history acknowledges the final slaves were freed in America. June 19, known as “Juneteenth” is recognized as an official state holiday as a result of a bill Senator Taylor authored.

“In our current political climate, we've seen laws and traditions that have stood for decades or even a century crumble,” said Taylor. “I'm glad Wisconsin doesn't currently balance our books using unpaid

CORRECTION...

In the text accompanying the photos from the Milwaukee Urban League's 31st Black and White Ball in our June 15 edition, we had a typo on the total amount local businesses gave to the MUL during the event. The correct amount was $398,000. We had printed a number that may have mislead our readers into believing it was much more than the $398,000 that was given to the agency. We apologize for the confusion caused.

Introducing... “SUMMER VOICES!”

EDITOR’S NOTE: This week, your Milwaukee Community Journal is unveiling our new summer project: “Summer Voices.” This initiative is designed to encourage youth ages pre-school to 25 years of age to write, create art, and share their thoughts about improving Milwaukee from “their own” perspective. Torre Johnson, president and founder of XMenUnited, is guiding “Summer Voices.”

A community organizer from the Harambee community, Johnson is a tenured counselor of youth who works to reduce recidivism.

If you know a youth between the aforementioned ages who would be interested in voicing their perspective on their community, or who just want to express their artistic side, have them submit their art, writing and viewpoint to: Vocies@communityjournal.net and Xmenunited64@gmail.com.

Urban My Dialogue

Attention Black Leaders :

It's been suggested that Milwaukee's black leaders are needed to complete a process of working together and a hope that they will stop critically competing against one another.

We have a community in need of an collective leadership collaboration.

Milwaukee is a city that waits on no one as it challenges it's own growth.

This collaboration must be authentic and transparent from the beginning. It must include building together towards all causes.

These causes should be to create and maintain productive, prosperous and peaceful lifestyles.

Its not only being suggested but also demanded.

We are climbing in some areas and declining in many others causing us to remain unbalanced. Milwaukee Black Leaders let's stand together!

Signed, Togetherness, Peace plus love!

Donald Trump Is Unfit to Lead

By Representative JoCasta Zamarripa

The stakes this November are too high. We cannot allow Donald Trump anywhere near the White House.

Nearly eight years ago we made history by electing Barack Obama our forty-fourth president, the first African-American president to ever hold the job.

He has been a uniter in times of deep division, a pillar of strength in times of great grief - a leader who understood the gravity of his words and issued them with the utmost care and thought.

There have been a number of moments over the course of his presidency that I looked to him to express what I could not: a deep optimism about America and what it means to be an American. In a word, hope.

Donald Trump does not share that optimism about our country or its people - in fact, his campaign slogan is “Make America Great Again”. We all know what those words mean - let’s take America backwards.

Let’s take America back to a time when it was just fine to say whatever dangerous, reckless, bigoted thoughts came to mind instead of being “politically correct.” Well I’m not going to be politically correct about this what’s at stake here: the character of our country.

I’ll admit, I didn’t take his campaign very seriously. I assumed any number of the racist remarks he’s made would disqualify him from the race: from calling Mexicans “rapists” in his announcement speech, to calling for a ban of Muslims, to stereotyping African-Americans and just about anyone else that doesn’t look like him.

This is a man who consistently leads the charge in questioning the citizenship and patriotism of our own president.

He is the mascot of every Internet conspiracy theory come to life and the Republican Party’s candidate for president.

I’m not afraid to say what Wisconsin’s own Speaker Paul Ryan, leader of the GOP, will not. Donald Trump is a racist and his ideas are dangerous.

We cannot put President Obama’s legacy in his hands. We have a very important choice to make about the kind of country we are. I share President Obama’s deep optimism that America is a place of tolerance and endless possibilities.

We are so close to breaking another barrier and making more history by electing our first female president in Hillary Clinton.

When he endorsed Hillary Clinton, President Obama said, “I don’t think there’s ever been someone so qualified to hold this office.”

Credentials aside, what qualifies Secretary Clinton most to be our Commander-in-Chief is her understanding that America is stronger together. In the wake of tragedy in Orlando, I took heart from her words in a way that felt familiar - a way that I have for the last eight years.

Donald Trump did us all a favor with his words - he reminded us he is unfit to lead. We simply cannot afford to take that gamble this election.

In truth, there were many Negro Leaguers better than Robinson, many nameless athletes whose accomplishments have faded with the passage of time, primarily because the larger community doesn’t care to remember the culture that sparked the creation of the Negro Leagues, and Black America has not understood the importance of keeping alive that page of our history.

Milwaukee is somewhat different because the former owners of the Milwaukee Brewers made a decision two decades ago to pay tribute to the Negro Leagues by creating a memorial in their honor at the old County stadium.

And the current owners have kept that concept alive and expanded upon it in conjunction with Holy Redeemer Church of God in Christ.

I remember covering the ribbon cutting for the Negro League Wall of Fame at “County Stadium.” One of the special guests at that event was Milwaukeean Dennis Biddle, himself a member of the Negro League fraternity.

Dennis, founder of the Yesterdays Negro League Foundation has been instrumental in keeping alive the fraternity and its contributions to sports, America and Black History.

By coincidence, I was on the Miller Park Stadium Board when a company entrusted to sell the old stadium memorabilia, including—mistakenly—the Wall of Fame.

Dennis learned of the auction and encouraged Holy Redeemer pastor Bishop Sedgwick Daniels to buy it.

Holy Redeemer, which hosts a Boys and Girls Club and school on its grounds, used the wall as the cornerstone for its Black sports complex that is the envy of Black sports fans around the country.

And the Wall?

It has grown into one of the premiere historical sites in the nation.

Credit Dennis for his coordination and steadfastness in keeping alive the Negro Leagues and seeking out players for inclusion.

As part of the process, the Brewers and the church participate in a weekend full of events.

For their part, the Brewers not only underwrite the appearance of invited Negro Leaguers, but also host a game at Miller Park each year during which the players are honored. That game will be played this Saturday when the Brewers take on the Washington Nationals.

The following day, the players will be enshrined in the Hall/Wall during a ceremony at Holy Redeemer’s Mother Kathryn Daniels’ Center.

This year, three honorees have been selected, including the oldest surviving member of the Negro League, Roosevelt Jackson. The other inductees are William McCrary and Ray Knox.

Jackson, who will be 99-years-old this year, played outfield and pitcher for the Miami Red Sox, Miami Globe-trotters and Florida Cuban Giants. He also served as a scout and manager.

McCrary played shortstop for the Kansas City Monarch, Janesville Cubs and Omaha Rockets in the 1940s. He also played for the New York Yankees farm team in 1950.

Knox started his professional career at the age of 17 and played catcher for the Chicago American Giants and New Orleans Eagles.

Wearing the uniforms of the Milwaukee Bears, our city’s Negro League team, the Brewers will face a National team who will don the jerseys of the Homestead Grays, their Negro League team on Saturday, June 25.

A special ticket will provide fans with free admission to a tailgate party that will offer free food, drink and entertainment, and a special T-shirt.

On the next day, Sunday at 1:30 p.m., an induction ceremony will be held at Hoy Redeemer COGIC’s Kathryn Daniels Center. It is open to the public.

A dozen other Negro League players, some of whom were previously inducted, will be in attendance at both events to sign autographs and converse with fans.

The ceremonies and tailgate will provide excellent opportunities to introduce or reacquaint Black folks to a page of Black history that has been overlooked, or intentionally ignored.

Or you can seek out Dennis during the events. He’ll be happy to talk from the perspective of someone who is acknowledged as a foremost expert on the League.

He has also accepted as his life’s mission keeping that history alive. And through his foundation Dennis is trying to link players to services and supplemental income.

And trust me, it’s no intrusion to reach out to Dennis—he loves to talk about baseball. I mean love with a capital L.

Dennis is a brother who also loves to inspire, educate, and to offer our history as opposed to “His-story.”

He’ll tell you that the league was founded in 1920 in Kansas City because “Negroes” were not allowed to play in the so-called major leagues.

Black folks flocked to ballparks around the country to support their favorite teams, and players. Paige, Cool Poppa Bell, Josh Gibson, Buck O’Neil, and Peanut Johnson, one of a handful of female players, were household names in the Black community.

Some other Negro Leaguers who followed Jackie Robinson into the major leagues (the last Negro League game was in 1960), included Willie Mays, Hank Aaron and Roy Campanella.

Imagine baseball without the contributions of those Black players who “moved up” to the majors?

Imagine how the major would have changed, the titles obtained and records set if more of the Negro Leaguers had been “allowed” to play in the segregated “majors?”

Paige was considered the greatest pitcher of all time, Dennis will tell you, and didn’t get to the major leagues until his was 42! He probably would have held every major league record had he been allowed to play in his 20s, or even his 30s.

Dennis told me recently that this year’s induction and Brewers’ tribute is particularly special because it will feature the oldest, and youngest Negro League players. “Me and Roosevelt, that’s truly an honor and a historic event,” he said with a big smile on his face.

While the players are in Milwaukee—generally for the entire weekend—Dennis serves as their escort and their link to a glorious, if under appreciated, past.

He says he’s always amazed at their energy, particularly when they dialogue with fans, particularly Black ones.

As an example, when told of the itinerary, one of this year’s honorees asked Dennis, “when are we going to the dance club?” Last time I saw him, he was in a wheelchair. And Roosevelt is in better shape than me!

Dennis is obviously proud of his involvement, and particularly happy that Milwaukee is home to the Wall of Fame that he has greatly contributed to.

He always makes a point of thanking Bishop Daniels, and the Milwaukee Brewers for introducing the project 20 years ago.

I was too young to attend a Bear’s game, but my Aunt Bebe often took me to Braves’ games at County Stadium.

We sat in the “colored” section, which ironically would have put us in position to catch an Aaron homerun.

As the Big Guy would have it, I served on the Miller Park Board during the construction of our new stadium.

And I can honestly say the Brewers, under the Selig family—Bud and later daughter Wendy—and now under Mark Attanasio, are the most progressive owners in the league.

In fact, had they been owners during the Negro League era, I would guarantee we would have witnessed an integrated team (and probably world champions each year).

See you at the tribute this weekend.

It’s time for Wisconsin to ban slavery

By Senator Lena C. Taylor

GUEST COMMENTARY

Did you know that Wisconsin’s Constitution allows slavery?

Take a minute, because I didn’t believe it when I heard it at first either.

Article I, Section 2 of Wisconsin’s Constitution states, “There shall be neither slavery, nor involuntary servitude in this state, otherwise than for the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.”

It doesn’t get any clearer than that. Our constitution leaves the door open for both slavery and mandatory unpaid labor in prisons. It’s bad enough that our constitution allows people to be sentenced to involuntary servitude (labor without pay), but to allow the state to own someone is just immoral!

I don’t care what you’ve done, slavery is never okay.

I want to say right off the top that even though Wisconsin’s Department of Corrections could use slavery, they currently do not. But do you want to trust the current group of politicians running Wisconsin with your freedom, or do you want it put into the state constitution?

My bill would ban slavery and involuntary servitude as a constitutional amendment in 2017, when the Legislature reconvenes.

If it passes, it would have to pass the next legislative session in 2019 and then it could appear on the 2020 ballot before it would become law.

“I want to say right off the top that even though Wisconsin’s Department of Corrections could use slavery, they currently do not. But do you want to trust the current group of politicians running Wisconsin with your freedom, or do you want it put into the state constitution?”

I know that’s a long time, but my Senate district includes the 53206 zip code, which is the most incarcerated zip code in the nation.

I’ve got more constituents living behind bars and far away parts of the state than any other legislator in Wisconsin.

Most people just write them off because they can’t vote. That’s not my style. I believe inmates are people too and my goal is to help them come back to 53206 one day and help our community get stronger and better. I don’t know a single person who would think that slavery would make that process more effective.

Just picture slavery. Often people think about picking cotton on a plantation or working on a chain gang on the side of the road. Do you want that for Wisconsin? In Louisiana, inmates work on the same plantations their ancestors worked as slaves.

Louisiana law permits them to be forced to work for free. On the other hand, Rhode Island bans all types of slavery in their constitution and Colorado will soon vote on a similar ban.

If we are going to start reforming our Department of Corrections, shouldn’t we start by banning slavery within DOC?

Through the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln freed slaves in the South.

Notice of the Emancipation Proclamation didn’t make its way to Galveston, Texas until June 19, 1865, when history acknowledges the final slaves were freed in America.

June 19, known as “Juneteenth,” is recognized as an official state holiday as a result of a bill I authored.

We are not free until everyone is free. I feel it is my obligation to make sure that when we talk about liberty and justice for all, it truly does mean for all!

Community Violence And Its Impact On Our Children

Biblical Counseling for Today's Christian Family

By: Rev. Judith T. Lester, B.Min., M.Th.

On June 12, 2016, 50 people were killed in a mass shooting in Orlando, Florida when a gunman opened fire in a packed gay nightclub, injuring 53.

This is the deadliest mass shooting by a single gunman in recent U.S. history and the deadliest incident of violence against the LGBT (Lesbian, Gay, Bi-sexual, Transgender) community in the United States. The gunman was shot dead by police.

On June 11, 2016 a Roswell, New Mexico man is suspected of killing his wife and four daughters, 3, 7, 11 and 14, in an apparent domestic dispute that turned deadly.

On June 5, 2016, 3 people were killed and three others were injured in a shooting spree in Cape Coral, Florida.

On June 1, 2016, 2 people died in a shooting at the University of California campus in Los Angeles (UCLA) which prompted the lock down for tens of thousands of students. It is believed the shooter was among those killed.

On April 22, 2016, 8 Ohio family members were killed execution-style in four separate homes in a rural Ohio community. Three children survived the ordeal, including a 4-day-old sleeping next to its slain mother, along with a 3-year-old and a six-month old.

Because public opinion polls show that Americans are concerned about violence in general and is dramatically under or misinformed about its specific consequences; and in light of the recent documentary on Milwaukee's 53206 zip code in which it was noted the homicide rate in 53206 is 250 per 100,000 and has the highest incarceration rate in the country; in cooperation with the Milwaukee Times Weekly Newspaper, this month this column will offer an abbreviated version of this series entitled: "Community Violence And Its Impact On Our Children."

The entire series will be published in the Milwaukee Times Weekly Newspaper. It is this writer's prayer, these articles will contribute to the ongoing discussions regarding community violence and, more specifically, its impact on our children.

At the time this article was submitted, there have been 56 deaths in Milwaukee so far in 2016. 49 of these crimes meet the FBI Uniform Crime Reporting criteria for homicides.

The shootings are becoming so regular in America that only the mass shootings like those that occurred in Orlando, California and Ohio get any national attention.

Last October, after shootings at the Oregon Community College, President Obama bewailed that mass killings have become "routine" in the United States: "I hope and pray that I don't have to come out again during my tenure as president to offer my condolences to families in these circumstances."

But based on my experience as president, I can't guarantee that," President Obama said. Little did the President know, nearly eight months later he would be holding another news conference concerning the Orlando massacre indicating: "This was an act of terror and an act of hate."

The World Report on Violence and Health 2002 ("WRVH") recognizes community violence as a major public

Two more schools join MPS and United Way's Milwaukee Community Schools Partnership

Browning, Lincoln Avenue added to partnership including Auer Avenue, Bradley Tech, Hopkins Lloyd, James Madison

Milwaukee Public Schools' Browning Elementary School and Lincoln Avenue Elementary School are scheduled to join MPS and the United Way of Greater Milwaukee & Waukesha County's Milwaukee Community Schools Partnership, the two organizations announced this week.

Funding for two additional Community Schools was approved as part of MPS' 2016-17 budget, which was approved in May, and district leaders identified the two new schools to join the program Tuesday evening at a committee of the Milwaukee Board of School Directors.

Browning and Lincoln Avenue will add to the existing roster of four schools in the Milwaukee Community Schools Partnership: MPS' Auer Avenue School, Lynde and Harry Bradley Technology and Trade High School, Hopkins Lloyd Community School and James Madison Academic Campus. This past school year, 2015-16, was the first full year of implementation for Milwaukee Community Schools Partnership.

The Community Schools model has been implemented across the country, showing that authentic engagement and shared leadership, combined with coordinated community partnerships focused on equity, can improve educational outcomes, school climate, and investment in local neighborhoods.

In Cincinnati, which has become a hub for the effort, graduation rates rose from 51% to more than 80% and the achievement gap between African-American and white students was dramatically reduced.

learners. It will be based in ACT's Iowa City headquarters and led by Jim Larimore, who previously served as ACT's chief officer for the advancement of underserved learners.

"The U.S. has an increasing challenge to live up to the American dream," said ACT Chief Executive Officer Marten Roorda. "Educational equity and access are societal issues that impact individuals across the country. The ACT Center for Equity in Learning will build upon ACT's longstanding commitment to address those issues, promoting college and career readiness, access and success for underserved students."

Pettit Center to Host Olympic Day

The Pettit National Ice Center, a U.S. Olympic Training Site, will take part in the world-wide celebration of Olympic Day on Thursday June 23 partnering with the Boys and Girls Club of Milwaukee.

Olympic Day is a worldwide commemoration of Baron Pierre de Coubertin's June 23, 1894, convening of the first International Olympic Committee (IOC) meeting at the Sorbonne in Paris, and the founding of the Modern Olympic Games. National Olympic Committees (NOCs) throughout the world will also participate in the international celebration, with each Olympic Committee sending Olympic Day greetings to participating nations.

Past Olympians who plan to be in attendance include 2002 Gold Medalist and 2006 Olympian Casey FitzRandolph, 1988 and 1992 Olympian Jeffery Klaiber, 2014 Olympian Emery Lehman and 1976 Olympian Randy Dean. These Olympians will share their experiences and the impact of athletics in their lives with the children.

"The Olympic ideals, including hard work, fair competition, friendship and perseverance, are relevant and beneficial to each of us, whether adults or youth and not just Olympic athletes," said Pettit Executive Director and 1976 Summer Olympian Randy Dean. "The Pettit Center is glad to be a part of this world-wide celebration and remains a valuable connection for the Milwaukee community to the Olympic movement."

The Olympic Day program will divide the children into two groups which then will rotate through two stations of activities with skating on a rink closing out the day.

Tentative Schedule (Subject to Change)

12:15pm – Children arrive and go to Hall of Fame Room; welcoming remarks; divide into 2 groups

12:30pm – Short Track speedskating demo on East Rink (Group A) and Figure Skating demo on West Rink (Group B)

12:50pm – Groups A & B switch

1:08pm – Free skating on East Rink for Groups A&B (go to Skate Rental; stagger the groups so all not in Skate Rental at same time)

2:00pm – End Free Skate (return skates to Skate Rental) and then go to Hall of Fame Room.

2:15pm – Olympians remarks in Hall of Fame Room

2:35pm – Children depart on bus

Olympic Day, held annually is celebrated by thousands of people, in more than 160 countries. Commemorating the birth of the modern Olympic Games, Olympic Day is not only a celebration, but an international effort to promote fitness and well-being in addition to Olympic ideals of fair play, perseverance, respect and sportsmanship.

For more information on the Olympic Day Celebration at the Pettit Center, please contact Kevin Butler by phone at 414.266.0100, ext. 4778 or by email at kbutler@thepettit.com.

Mayor Barrett recently accepted $25,000 from Bell Ambulance for Earn & Learn, his summer youth employment program that assists Milwaukee teens in making a successful transition from adolescence into adulthood through job skills and work experience.

This gift to the Earn & Learn fund comes at the same time as Rick Zehetner, founder of Bell Ambulance, celebrates 50 years of working in local emergency medical services (EMS). Mayor Barrett will honor Mr. Zehetner's dedication to the health and safety of Milwaukee residents.

Under Mr. Zehetner's leadership, Bell Ambulance has grown to become the largest ambulance provider in the State of Wisconsin.

17th annual citywide competition set for Saturday, June 18

Milwaukee Recreation will host the 17th annual Special Olympics citywide tournament from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, June 18 at Wick Playfield, 4929 W. Vliet St.

Participants will compete in softball, tee-ball, and bocce for the opportunity to qualify for the district competition in July.

Over 700 athletes, coaches, spectators, and volunteers from Milwaukee, Ozaukee, and Washington counties will attend. Admission is free and open to the public.

"This is a major event for Milwaukee's Special Olympics program," says Recreation Supervisor Jodie Donabar.

VERY THANKFUL: “MILWAUKEE HABITAT FOR HUMANITY” REHABS ITS 1,000TH HOME

By Julie Collins

1,000!

That's the number of homes the Milwaukee Habitat for Humanity has rehabbed int he Greater Milwaukee area. Friday, June 17th the keys were handed over to the new homeowner.

It's been a long time coming for Deanna Brown and her daughter.

"I feel overwhelmed in a sense, very thankful, grateful," said Deanna Brown, Habitat homeowner.

Friday, they officially moved into their new home in the Washington Park neighborhood.

For the last four years, Milwaukee Habitat has focused all of their work as part of a five-year neighborhood revitalization strategy. In that time, over 200 families have been served and the neighborhood has been helped.

"Over the last two years, the Washington Park neighborhood has seen a nearly 30% reduction in crime across every metric which stands out in the city as a whole.

Property values have stabilized and they're on the increase and people, residents, not just Habitat homeowners but residents throughout the neighborhood and more hopeful about the future for this neighborhood," said Brian Sonderman, Milwaukee Habitat for Humanity.

This new home means a brighter future for Deanna and her daughter who has some special needs.

"My daughter, she's got a wheelchair and a walker so she's not limited in our house in terms of what she can access and what she can't," said Brown.

Because this home is ADA compliant with an open concept and a handicapped accessible bathroom.

"Especially as she grows and becomes a bigger child or a teen even, that's hard to think about but it's more long-term for us that this will work versus how to make something work. This already works," said Brown.

Brown feels proud because she worked to help rehab it along with 200 other volunteers, seven months, and the sweet equity of the homeowner.

"I've done painting, to putting up drywall to helping install windows,"said Brown.

Now, she's proud to call it her own.

Habitat for Humanity is far from over in the Port Washington neighborhood. They are currently rehabbing three more homes in the area.

"I feel overwhelmed in a sense, very thankful, grateful"

BUCKS SIGN JASON KIDD TO CONTRACT EXTENSION

The Milwaukee Bucks have extended the contract of Head Coach Jason Kidd, the team announced today.

The agreement will keep Kidd in his position with the Bucks organization through the 2019-20 season.

“Our goal remains to be a consistent contender for NBA Championships and we believe that Jason Kidd is the right man for the job,” said Bucks co-owner Wes Edens.

“In terms of preparing, developing and relating to today’s players, we think there is no better fit to lead our young and talented roster. We are excited that Jason will continue to call Milwaukee his home.”

“I truly believe that continuity is extremely important in our business, so I’m very happy for Jason and the Bucks organization to continue the partnership we have,” said General Manager John Hammond. “Jason and his staff work tirelessly to help our players grow and develop and I look forward to working with them to build our roster into a consistent contender.”

Kidd was hired by the Bucks on July 1, 2014, and helped lead the Bucks to a 41-41 record and the 6th seed in the 2015 Eastern Conference Playoffs in his first season in Milwaukee.

In his three seasons as an NBA head coach, Kidd has posted a 118-128 (.479) record, including a 44-38 (.537) mark in his initial NBA head coaching campaign with the Brooklyn Nets in 2013-14.

“I greatly appreciate the confidence that our owners have placed in me by signing me to this extension,” said Kidd.

“We have a hard-working group of coaches that want to teach our young players and help them reach their full potential.

“We still have work to do but we’re committed to the goal of building a team that consistently competes for titles.”

“I’m excited that my family and I will continue to make our home in Milwaukee,” Kidd continued. “We appreciate the terrific support we’ve received and look forward to many great years moving forward.”

Before becoming a head coach, Kidd enjoyed an exceptional 19-year NBA playing career, which included 10 All-Star Game appearances and an NBA Championship in 2011 as a member of the Dallas Mavericks. He was named to the All-NBA First Team five times.

All-NBA Second Team once, to the NBA’s All-Defensive First Team four times and All-Defensive Second Team five times. Kidd also won gold medals with Team USA in the 2000 Olympics in Sydney and the 2008 Olympics in Beijing.

The second overall pick of the Dallas Mavericks in the 1994 NBA Draft, Kidd shared Co-Rookie of the Year honors with Grant Hill. He played in 1,391 regular season games with Dallas, Phoenix, New Jersey and New York.

His teams qualified for the post-season 17 times, and he played in 158 playoff games, including three trips to the NBA Finals (2002, 2003 – New Jersey; 2011 – Dallas).

ACT Establishes ACT Center for Equity in Learning

during the 2015-2016 school year to ensure that students from lower income families could take the ACT college readiness test. The ACT was taken by 59 percent of U.S. high school 2015 graduates.

Over the past six months, ACT has also launched a new online test prep program and a groundbreaking new online test prep program with live instruction offered through a partnership with Kaplan, both of which are free to low-income students who register for the ACT with a fee waiver.

The social investment of ACT, at nearly 15 percent of its total revenues, equals the organization’s investment in product development, both in the amount and in impact to ACT’s nonprofit mission.

The Center brings together and leverages ACT’s Office for the Advancement of Underserved Learners, the ACT Foundation, and ACT’s corporate giving and volunteer programs into a single unit with one aligned purpose and goal.

The Center will focus on closing gaps in equity and achievement for underserved learners, including those who are balancing the demands of work while pursuing education. There will be an emphasis on ACT’s core strengths in the high school to postsecondary years.

Consistent with ACT’s holistic framework, the Center’s initiatives will reflect ACT’s interests in both college and career readiness and highlight the use of data, evidence and thought leadership to close gaps in equity and achievement.

“The establishment of the ACT Center for Equity in Learning represents a major commitment and investment by ACT to address the challenges facing underserved learners, many of whom are also working learners,” said Jim Larimore.

“I’m very excited to be leading this important effort. Through our collaboration with the American Council on Education’s American College Application Campaign, the Better Make Room campaign led by Civic Nation, Univision and other partners, we want to reach millions of deserving students and ensure that all students have access to the information they need to prepare for success in their educational and career pursuits after high school.”

The Center will continue and build upon current ACT research collaboration with organizations such as Excelencia in Education, the Council for Opportunity in Education, the United Negro College Fund, the National Center for Community and Education Partnerships, the National Indian Education Association, the Asian and Pacific Islander American Scholarship Fund, Innovate + Educate and the ACT Foundation’s innovative and catalytic research in working learners and the emergence of a national learning economy with the Center on Education and the Workforce at Georgetown University.

“Using evidence from high quality assessments to foster improvements in both learning and the policies that support learning is vitally important,” said Roorda.

One of the Center’s early initiatives will capitalize on ACT’s research on non-academic factors that influence student success.

The Center is planning a national conference in 2017 that will focus on growth mindset and the behavioral and cross-cutting (often referred to as non-cognitive) factors that contribute to success in education and the workplace.

The new center will be engaged in a number of activities, including:

- conducting and supporting research that leads to actions and solutions that improve learning and close gaps in equity and achievement,
- informing policymakers and other leaders on critical topics to increase awareness and understanding of issues impacting underserved individuals,
- educating students and their families on ways to improve postsecondary readiness and success,
- improving the accessibility of ACT’s programs, and
- building partnerships and networks to foster collaboration and increase impact.

“Every student needs and deserves a quality education and an opportunity to realize his or her potential,” said Larimore. “Through the work of the Center for Equity in Learning, ACT wants to play a meaningful role in creating a more just and equitable future.”

Next week ACT and Excelencia in Education will release a national report on The Condition of College and Career Readiness for Hispanic Students, based on the ACT-tested 2015 graduating class.

Sen. Taylor proposes slavery ban

mandatory prison labor and I want to make sure we never see anything like a chain gang here.”

Taylor’s district includes the zip code 53206, the most heavily incarcerated zip code in the nation. She intends to introduce the ban as a constitutional amendment in 2017, when the Legislature reconvenes.

Constitutional amendments must pass two consecutive legislative sessions and then be approved by a statewide referendum. In Louisiana, inmates work on the same plantations their ancestors worked as slaves. Rhode Island, on the other hand, operates its Department of Corrections lawfully under their state’s constitutional ban on slavery. Voters in Colorado will soon vote on a similar ban.
