The Milwaukee Urban League's 32nd Annual Black & White Ball

THE CHANGING OF THE GUARD!

A new era and journey were begun during the 32nd annual Milwaukee Urban League (MUL) Black and White Ball held over the weekend at the BMO Harris Bradley Center. Above are some of the scenes from the event, reportedly the last that will be held at the Bradley Center. Dr. Even Hall (photo at top right) made her debut at the ball as the new president and CEO of the civil rights and economic justice and empowerment organization. In her speech before the gathering, she launched the "Journey to 100."

The MUL will be celebrating its 100 year anniversary in 2019. The "Journey to 100" will see the organization partner with others to facilitate new conversations on the rich history and contributions of African Americans in Milwaukee and Wisconsin, along with highlighting the collaborative efforts between Blacks, Whites, and others over the years that led to significant advances in the quality of life for people of color. Hall said the MUL will focus even harder on finding solutions to the city's and community's problems in the areas of education and youth workforce development, economic empowerment and equity and inclusion. More Black and White Ball photos in the Weekend Edition.

Nicole Brookshire tapped as first director of the Office on African American Affairs

Milwaukee County Executive Chris Abele today announced his appointment of Nicole Brookshire as the first director of the County's Office on African American Affairs (OAAA), a key step forward in tackling Milwaukee's inexcusable racial inequities.

A Milwaukee resident, Brookshire has an established track record of success in the private, public, and nonprofit sectors.

Brookshire's appointment comes following a comprehensive national search, a series of public listening sessions and meetings with key social justice stakeholders, a strategic paid advertising campaign highlighting the Office in traditional print media, a targeted social media campaign, and -- most importantly -- at the recommendation of a community-driven panel of local leaders, spearheaded by Ralph Hollmon.

"I put a stake in the ground by prioritizing racial inequities, and we're making progress as a community, but the addition of Nicole Brookshire will help take us to the next level," County Executive Chris Abele said.

"Precisely because the mission of this Office is so important, I wanted to make sure we took the time to find the right person, someone who understands Milwaukee and could earn the support of the community. We found that person in Nicole Brookshire."

"Nicole is a disciplined, accountable, performance-minded individual who has a proven track record of getting things done, and I'm excited to have her join the County team."

"Milwaukee's racial inequities won't be solved overnight, but I am looking forward to partnering with my community to move the needle," Brookshire said.

County Supervisor Omokunde wants review of Sheriff department's policy on pursuing fleeing vehicles

Call comes days after sheriff's deputy fires at fleeing SUV on city's lakefront

Milwaukee County Sup. Supreme Moore Omokunde called for a review of the Milwaukee County Sheriff's office's policy for pursuing suspects who flee in a vehicle, especially when pursuit takes place in a densely populated area.

"I'm concerned by the fact that Milwaukee County Sheriff's deputies would choose to aggressively pursue a vehicle so close to a crowd of people along the lakefront, which could have resulted in serious injury to innocent bystanders."

Sup. Omokunde's statement comes two days after a Milwaukee county sheriff's deputy--who was on footpatrol at the scene--fired his weapon into an SUV that was being pursued by a sheriff's vehicle on Lincoln Memorial Drive on the city's lakefront Sunday night.

A Sheriff's deputy was attempting to stop the SUV, an Audi, for a traffic infraction. But according to a video posted on Facebook, the SUV did not stop and drove onto a median.

A man and woman who were in the SUV were wounded. The Sheriff's department identified the couple as 19-year-old Terry Williams and 23-year-old Paula McEwen. According to a Facebook video, there was a third person--a male--in the backseat. But during a news conference held by Sheriff David Clarke Monday, he was not mentioned, according to a published report.

Cong. Moore, state Sen. Johnson express their sympathies to victims in congressional baseball practice shootings

Compiled by MCJ Editorial Staff

U.S. Congresswoman Gwen Moore and state Sen. LaTonya Johnson expressed their sympathies and support to the five victims shot Wednesday morning at a congressional baseball practice just outside of Washington, D.C., in Alexandria, Virginia.

The practice was being held by congressmen from both political parties ahead of a charity baseball game. The game will be played Thursday as scheduled.

One of the victims was Republican Rep. Steve Scalise, the majority whip in the House of Representatives and the third ranking member in the House leadership.

The shooter, 66-year-old James Hodgkinson of Illinois, was also shot and later died of his wounds. Two Capitol Police officers, Crystal Griner and David Bailey, are being hailed as heroes for their actions to stop Hodgkinson. They are two of the five who were wounded in the assault.

Observers and law enforcement officials noted that if Griner and Bailey had not been on the scene as Scalise's security detail, the outcome could have been much worse.

"Today's (Wednesday's) senseless shooting wasn't just an assault on our Republican colleagues, but an attack on our country and the United States Congress, Moore said in a statement.

"While this act of malice has shaken all of us to our core, such cruelty and cowardice will never deter the House of Representatives from continuing our collective mission to serve our constituents and our districts.

King Drive Commons Gallery and Studio joins in with the Juneteenth Celebration to include exhibits, historical and healthy lifestyle presentations...and chess games

The King Drive Commons Gallery and Studio (KDCGS) will join in the celebration of Juneteenth with exhibits, historical and healthy lifestyle presentation, even chess games. The legendary celebration will take place Monday, June 19, starting at 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The KDCGS will highlight and explore the legacy and genius of African Americans by exhibiting the myriad of inventions Black Americans have created. African Americans forged a long history of creating and improving technology, machinery and household items that made life easier for everyone.

In 1870, shortly after emancipation, the U.S. government allowed African Americans the right to patent and profit from their inventions.

Take a journey with educator and storyteller, Joyce Shabazz, to discover the contributions made by African Americans that are still used today: The Folding Bed - Sarah E. Goode, first African American woman to receive a patent (1885); The Mop - Thomas W. Stewart (1893), The Curtain Rod - Samuel R. Scottron (1892), and The Ice Cream Scoop - Alfred Cralle (1897).

The Exhibit is free and open to the public school groups and children ages seven and older.

Shabazz is a now retired early childhood teacher who impacted dozens of children for more than 25 years. Shabazz and her husband continue to share their love of history with others.

Nicole Brookshire to be first director of Office on African American Affairs

that Nicole has a great combination of skills, experiences and commitment which will enable her to work effectively with different sectors of the community to improve some of the dismal conditions that confront African Americans in Milwaukee County."

Introduced by then-Supervisor Khalif Rainey and approved by the County Board, Milwaukee County's Office on African American Affairs has the ambitious mission of recognizing and resolving the County's racial inequities for the benefit of all of its citizenry and for the region to achieve its full potential. As Director, Brookshire will lead the implementation of coordinated plans in areas that include workforce development, criminal justice, and other strategic areas.

Brookshire's appointment to Director of the Milwaukee County Office on African American Affairs is made pursuant to Wisconsin Statute Sec. 59.17(2) and is subject to confirmation by the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors.

Brookshire has established herself in Milwaukee as a thoughtful, innovative, and collaborative problem-solver who is respected in the community and cares about getting results that matter.

Most recently, Brookshire served as the Vice President of Operations for Junior Achievement of Wisconsin, where she managed a $5.4 million annual budget.

Previously, Brookshire served as the Grants Compliance Manager for the City of Milwaukee Community Development Grants Administration, where she administered annual budgets in the $10-$16 million range, standardized grant reapplication processes to bolster grantee accountability, and enhanced the City of Milwaukee and Milwaukee County Continuum of Care.

OAAA's top priority is bolstering employment within the African American community. While Milwaukee's racial issues are complex and interrelated, increasing access to good-paying jobs for all residents is a key component of any successful strategy for addressing racial inequities.

In just a few months, and without a dedicated staff in place, the Office has had great success with two workforce initiatives, the Opportunity Knocks program and UpLift MKE.

Opportunity Knocks, which launched in fall of 2016, is a novel housing model that utilizes home equity created through home renovation to fund reentry services and first-time home ownership. Opportunity Knocks takes tax-foreclosed homes in Milwaukee County's suburban municipalities, renovates the homes while providing job training to nonviolent House of Correction (HOC) offenders, provides reentry services to the returning citizens after the renovation, and sells the house to a first-time homeowner through the County's new Section 8 Homeownership Program paired with HOME funds for down payment assistance.

This program will help expand the House of Correction's existing reentry services and job training and placement capability, allowing us to empower more people to live a better life.

The County has helped even more people to date with UpLift MKE, a unique job training and placement program that began one year ago. Working with community partners like the Milwaukee Bucks, Milwaukee County has already placed more than 100 individuals in jobs averaging more than $15 per hour through UpLift MKE.

These job training and placement efforts are targeted directly to workers, particularly those in and near the Sherman Park area, who most need support to successfully climb the ladder of opportunity.

This program has been so successful that County Executive Abele expanded it less than a year in. His 2017m budget added an extra $500,000 in funding for UpLift MKE and $165,000 for the Boys and Girls Club of Milwaukee to add a Youth Career Development project manager to serve teenagers in Sherman Park and other areas. In 2015, more than 300 teenagers found employment through the efforts of the Boys and Girls Club, and this funding will expand their efforts.

Kamala Harris has the mic now, so everybody needs to sit down

If you’ve been watching the Senate Intelligence Committee hearings on Russia-gate, then you know Senator Kamala Harris (D-Calif.) is killing it.

The junior senator from California is shining in the spotlight, as she puts officials’ feet to the fire, grills them and serves them up. No one is getting away with anything with Harris, who served as the California attorney general before coming to Capitol Hill.

Harris is the only black woman on the committee, or in the Senate for that matter. She is also the only prosecutor, and it shows.

Her tenacity and probing line of questioning makes her stand out among her colleagues.

This, at a time when shady people in high places apparently stole the 2016 election, and sold out the country to Vladimir Putin.

Someone must hold them accountable – and it might as well be Mrs. Harris.

The Tuesday committee hearing with Jeff Sessions is a case in point. Sen. Harris challenged U.S. Attorney General Jefferson Beauregard Sessions III on his evasiveness regarding his ties to Russia and meetings with Russian officials when he was an adviser for the Trump campaign.

The senator wanted to see the receipts, but Sessions didn’t have them. The attorney general learned the hard way that when Kamala Harris comes for you, you’d better be prepared.

Sessions was not. Jeff Sessions is not the intellectual firepower of the Trump administration. To be frank, there is no brain trust in this White House. Sessions fumbled and bumbled his way through his testimony and could barely read his prepared statement of fiction. When he wasn’t lying he said he could not recall. Otherwise, Sessions relied on a nonexistent “long standing policy” as he called it, which we might as well call the “Stonewall” privilege—enjoyed by white men who believe their standing in the world allows them to avoid answering government questions under oath.

Harris: And you referred to a long standing DOJ policy, can you tell us what policy it is you’re talking about?

Sessions: Well, I think most cabinet people as the witnesses you had before you earlier, those individuals declined to comment because we’re all — about conversations with the President — because that’s a long standing policy —

Harris: Sir, I’m just asking you about the DOJ policy you referred to. Sessions: — that goes beyond just the Attorney General.

Harris: Is that policy in writing somewhere? Sessions: I think so.

And Sessions was nervous. We know this because he told Sen. Harris she made him nervous:

Harris: I do want you to be honest. Sessions: — I’m not able to be rushed this fast. It makes me nervous.

Harris: Are you aware of any communications with other Trump campaign officials and associates that they had with Russian officials or any Russian

When it comes to “the N-word” there are no exceptions, free passes, or lame excuses!

The most commonly used example on the limits of free speech in America is that you can’t falsely yell “fire” in a crowded theater.

But can a White liberal use the pejorative “nigger” among Black friends? Is it appropriate for a White hip-hop group to recite rap lyrics infused with the noun (or is it an adjective) “nigga” at the BET Awards?

Or, can a White wife or girlfriend affectionately refer to her Black beau/boo as “my nigga?”

Obviously, my examples are not exactly in the same sphere as the “fire” illustration, in that by yelling “fire” as a pun the purveyor could incite a stampede leading to injury or death.

That scenario has actually happened, and the accused party was admonished when trying to defend his actions by saying he had a constitutionally protected right to free speech. He didn’t, because there are limits to our “rights.”

Indeed, chances are if you yelled “nigger” in a suburban Marcus Theater a half dozen people would probably respond, “What you want?”

(For the record, they closed all of the city movie theaters because operators apparently felt too many of those “Kaffas” were scaring away White customers.)

But that doesn’t mean the adjective and/or noun (depending on your emphasis) cannot incite violence.

A Wisconsin judge once ruled that “nigger” was a “fighting word,” and the White boy who uttered it at a Black student at a so-called “integrated” school should have expected to get his butt whipped. Which he did.

So, is the noun/adjective “Nigger” acceptable today, or not? And if it is, how can you restrict others from using it, whether they mean it in a derogatory fashion or as a term of affection—(“My Lord and Savior, Jesus the Nigger”)?

Is the word, as I believe, the penultimate racist slur, and thus a fighting word when uttered by bigots of all hues?

Or is there some middle ground where “extended” family members of a lighter complexion (White liberals) feel comfortable making the word the punch line of a racial joke as satirist Bill Maher did recently?

As I previously noted, in this America—as opposed to the America that Donald Trump would make great again (where we’ll all be called “niggers” without regard or fear of retaliation)—the bill of rights allows freedom of expression short of inciting violence or mayhem.

So technically, anybody can say just about anything, including targeted racist epithets.

And Maher, who is a progressive Jew who likes dark meat as the main course, is a super liberal.

Mahe hates anything to the right of left, is an atheist and acclaims that short men are more intelligent and sexy. (I agree with him on that point.)

Moreover, he is unapologetically demonstrative in his castration of the bigots, and as such has earned the respect and admiration of dozens of Black friends from Michael Eric Dyson to Jesse Jackson.

Because of his political stances and progressive lifestyle, Maher has been bestowed with what conservative talk show host Armstrong Williams mockingly calls “liberal privilege,”—an honorary Negro pass allowing him to speak on behalf of Black people, which according to the Negro Leaders Handbook allows him to walk and talk Black behind closed doors.

But that pass was temporarily revoked when Maher actually used the “N” word on his HBO talk show two weeks ago.

Instead of laughing at the joke he used that highlighted the word, Black friends and associates were forced to join pundits in condemning Maher—at least publicly.

Yet by doing so, they in turn had to reveal to the public the blatant hypocrisy inherent in their condemnation.

As I Twitted, or Twisted or Tweeted when the controversy forced HBO to slap him on the wrist (he brings in too much money to fire), those Black folks who used the word themselves have no right to condemn him, since he was not using it in an offensive manner and erroneously felt he could without reproach.

In fact, Williams, who like Al Sharpton, believes as I do that the word should be buried along with the Confederate flag and Swastika, was right in calling out all of the Black “leaders” who on the one hand find no fault in Black people denigrating each other but somehow can justify lambasting Maher for using the word to make a point.

True enough, Maher is a hypocrite for using the “N” word when he castigated his friend Jesse Jackson for referring to New York as “hymie town.” The entire White Jewish community lambasted Jackson for making that racist statement, as well they should. But Jews, like every other ethnic group aside

Let Not Death Become Your Life

Death must not be allowed to overshadow life.

Death has a habit of getting the attention that a person living would actually die for. I have seen more people attending vigil's than graduations. I have seen more people attending more funerals than birthday parties, as if it's more about the living being seen than those that are deceased.

This month we all watched as our loved ones advanced to their next levels in life and education. The social media posts were so beautiful, all while the usual murder occurred, one after the next. There was even a sheriff related killing at the Lakefront and suddenly our post immediately began to change.

Our celebrations must not be allowed to end we must not only hope but encourage our graduates to push forward. They must push towards our futures and their futures, that it be so much better.

I will always acknowledge those that came before us and those who left before us, especially those who contributed to life by sacrificing their for others.

Broken homes in the Black Community: Millennials Want it to Stop

Growing up in a single-parent home, I learned at a very early age that life isn't easy. My mother was a full-time student working to get her masters, worked a full-time job and still managed to keep a roof over her four children's heads. We never went a day without eating and we were very well mannered. I remember sitting on my mom's suede chase lounge counting out coins so we can buy McDonald's for dinner.

At the time, I didn't question where my father was, all I knew was that he was simply not there. He was not present in the lives of my three brothers to teach them what it means to be a man. He was not there to tell me how beautiful I was. My father was not around to be the foundation and the rock of my family. Most importantly, he was not there to help my mom.

The more I witnessed my mom struggle, the more I realized how important it is for the home to be unbroken. I realized how much easier it would have been raising four children with an additional income and not just one. At such an early age, I realized how crucial it was to have a father in the household. With an absent parent, it affected not only me, but my mother and siblings as well.

During my research on this topic I found that one in four children in the United States is being raised by a single parent. According to a study reported by News One, this percentage has been on the rise and is higher than other developed countries. Particularly in the African American community, 72% of black children are raised in a single parent household.

Broken Families in the black community have become too normal. It is in fact rare that you see more married couples with families opposed to those who are not. The effect on boys and girls that grow up without a father figure is heartbreaking and redundant.

Boys who grow up without a strong male influence in their lives sometimes lead to issues affecting stability in their emotions, as well as behavior issues. It is imperative that boys have that father figure to teach them how to be a man. Having anything less than that puts the child at risk to being unable to

By Torre “ToeJoe” Johnson

I will also always acknowledge those who's missions were to assure others had their needs.

We as a people, must embrace and protect life. We must respect ourselves so as to be able to respect others. We must not fear death, but stop accepting it as our only way of finding peace.

Remain Safe Milwaukee I will see you at Juneteenth
--Torre M. Johnson Sr./ President Of XMEN UNITED LLC

build a strong relationship, let alone maintain one.

As far as little girls go, according to the Huffington Post, women who grow up without fathers often struggle with feelings of low self-esteem and unworthiness. Fathers play a key role in teaching their daughters how to be in a loving non-intimate relationship with a man. Without that important piece to the puzzle, girls are more likely to turn to sex in order to feel loved often resulting in teenage pregnancies and high school drop outs.

While a lot has been written about Millennials and how our mindset works, this one here puts the icing on the cake. I am an advocate for unbroken families, especially in the black community. There are so many factors in society that are systematically geared towards keeping the black community down. Not having a father present in the lives of their wives and children should not be one. We must rise against the predestined plan society has placed on our community. We must not grant the enemy the power to make any more innocent families a statistic.

Before our generation, the number one priority in society was family and

Funeral services held for former Milwaukee County social worker Richard Lyles

Richard Lyles

Funeral services were held June 12 at Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church for Richard Lyles. Lyles was the father of Vincent Lyles, president and CEO of the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Milwaukee. Lyles passed away June 5. He was 89.

The elder Lyles was a retired Milwaukee County social worker, starting in the early 1970s. As a social worker, Lyles helped thousands of people who relied on the social safety net of Milwaukee County.

He often talked about the cases in which the adult or child with physical disabilities were particularly challenging and he went the extra mile to help them.

Lyles also worked as the “24-hour Case Worker” many weekends and would be responsible for placing runaway kids into child protective service facilities or foster homes.

Lyles often shared how difficult this type of work was, but he truly loved helping people. He retired from Milwaukee County in 1992.

Before becoming a social worker, Lyles worked for the United States Postal Service, working as a third shift baggage handler.

He was also a licensed real estate agent working for Green Realty and United Realty for 25 years where he helped many families obtain their first home.

Lyles also was a tax preparer. His family and friends remember seeing him sitting at the dining room table surrounded by countless stacks of paper between January and April of each year.

Lyles viewed his role as a coach (he was a coach for the old Browning School Softball League), real estate salesman, notary and tax preparer, a Coast Guard reservist and Webelos leader for the Scout troop at Browning as opportunities for him to give back.

Lyles was the first child born to the late Rufus and Lillie Lyles on September 25, 1927 in Sandhill, Mississippi.

He attended elementary school in the area and graduated from Pigskee High School in 1944.

Lyles left Mississippi after high school and joined the United States Army when World War II was coming to an end. He served his country with honor and distinction. Upon his return to Mississippi, Richard began to pursue his college degree.

Due to his humble beginnings, Lyles started out as a part-time student at Alcorn University in Lorman, MS, and worked various jobs on campus.

He eventually decided to major in Agriculture, having grown up on a farm and believing he could find suitable employment as an “Ag Man.”

Over the summers, Lyles and many of his classmates came to Milwaukee to work in factories to help pay for college.

He joined Phi Beta Sigma fraternity at Alcorn and was very proud of his membership in the same fraternity as A. Phillip Randolph and James Weldon Johnson.

After the summer of 1951, when Lyles returned to campus, he met Deola Purnell. Deola was a student at Jackson State College, but had obtained a degree at Alcorn and visited the campus often doing student teaching and because many of her siblings at from Black folks, understand the lunacy of self-degradation.

I agree wholeheartedly with Williams: Maher felt he was given license to use the term and instead of apologizing, should have stood up and behind his right to use it. Just like I stand up to my assertion that only those without sin can cast the first, second or third stone.

I hate the “N” word; never use it other than to make an example or to condemn those who don’t know that “nigger” is a link in the chain connecting us to slavery and the atrocities that followed, including Jim Crow and 40,000 lynchings.

If you look in the mirror and see a nigger, or call your brother, sister or mother one, they win and the chain is reinforced.

But apparently, a significant segment of our community doesn’t see it that way (which explains why we’re in the predicament we’re in).

Rapper Ice Cube, who fits the hypocritical profile starting with his membership in the rap group NWA (Niggas With Attitudes) called Maher out for using the word, although he did accept what can only be assumed to be a sincere apology.

In a special edition of his show, Ice Cube politely scolded Maher and explained that our “family” had taken ownership of the word and redefined it to mean something positive.

Yeah, just like they did with the word “bitch.”

In his “sentencing” statement, Ice Cube told Maher that only “family” members could use the epithet.

And as for redefining the word? Give me a break!

I’ve heard that asinine and disingenuous assertion before. It is as unbelievable as Michael Jackson saying a disease turned his skin white, drinking too much lemon Kool Aid made his lips thin out, and a sinus problem shrunk his nose.

If Ice Cube and the rest of his family were successful in redefining the word, why get mad at Maher?

It shouldn’t bother those who Snoop Doggy Dud calls “real niggas.”

Maheer was simply saying he was not a “field nigger,” a Black slave who labored in the cotton fields from “can’t see to can’t see, hated his ‘massa’, and always sought an opportunity to escape ‘up-north,’ where they mistakenly believed conditions were better and they would no longer be ‘niggers.’” How ironic that they found out differently.

Wake up “family” members!

You can’t change that history by substituting an “a” for the “er” in the spelling of the word as younger Black folks do.

Those of us, who know the history of the word and the intent behind it, will never use the word.

But sadly, far too many Millennials were intentionally taught a sanitized version of history that excluded the origins of racism, the false justification of Manifest Destiny and the imposition of the worst form of slavery known to mankind; a system maintained through bigotry of which the establishment of “niggertude” was a primary tool.

Most of the Millennials who casually use the term don’t know it was the last word heard before the whip ripped the flesh off their ancestors’ backs.

It was the last noun heard as the massa ripped off the rags of our great grandmothers before they were raped. And it was the last adjective heard by millions of Black men as they were hung, roasted over an open fire like bar-be-cue, or castrated and hung before cheering crowds.

How sick are those images? And how can you denigrate the memories of those victims by callously calling yourself a “nigger?”

Oprah Winfrey believes as I do, but believes this is a battle we can’t win. Maybe not. But I’ve made my home a sanctuary, and I ask that the word not be used there.

My family has worked too hard to establish ourselves as positive role models. Thus, we declare that we are not now, nor will we or our children ever be “niggers”, or “niggas” or the “N” word.

My tribe consists of the decedents of African greatness, of cousins to Frederick Douglass, and Harriet Tubman and Martin Delaney. Of nieces and nephews of Martin and Malcolm.

My tribe carries the seeds of Lucy, the first human being, born in Africa, the Garden of Eden.

We are members of God’s chosen race, the first people. We are thus linked to Jesus the Christ, the Black Hebrew. And our Jesus definitely was not a nigger, no matter how you spell it.

Hotep.

Millennials and broken homes in the Black community

everything that fell in between that word. People focused on strong husband and wife relationships. They capitalized on family dinners and family quality time, things that made the family strong and connected. Now, it seems like everyone has gotten used to divorce. The word team seems to have been recreated with the addition of the letter ‘I’. Women are becoming more independent, not that that’s a bad thing, but if a woman insists on doing everything on her own, there is no room left for a man.

Millennials have acknowledged that there is a rise in broken homes. We see how it affects the upbringing of those who experience it and according to the Pew Research Center 52% of Millennials say being a good parent- better than their own parents- is the most important thing in their lives. Having a successful marriage ranks as the second most important at 30%.

Yes, we are often misunderstood but Millennials are bringing light to a new way of thinking and much like our elder generations, we are a family-focused group of individuals who understand and appreciate the importance of keeping families together. --Paishance Welch, Millennial Magic

Omokunde calls for review of county sheriff department’s policy on pursuing fleeing vehicles

was found in the vehicle, though where in the vehicle it was found was not stated. Nor did Clarke say whether the gun was brandished by Williams or anyone else in the Audi.

The sheriff’s deputy who shot into the SUV was 32-year-old Michael Truax. He had been assigned to foot patrol in the area. He has been placed on administrative leave, which is standard procedure after an officer or deputy has been involved in a shooting incident.

McEwen reportedly suffered a gunshot wound to her shoulder and hand. However, Williams, was more seriously wounded, suffering a gunshot wound to the head. He was on life-support until Tuesday when he was pronounced dead at Froedtert Hospital.

Saying he wants answers to what happened, Omokunde noted many people are saying if it was a white person who was driving the SUV (Williams was Black), “the deputies wouldn’t have shot them.

“Whether or not this is true, this is the public perception and we have to acknowledge this,” Omokunde continued, “because we can’t have constructive community-police relations with this kind of dynamic.”

Omokunde said the sheriff’s office should review its policy regarding the pursuit of suspects who flee in a vehicle.

“With the Milwaukee Police Department, we know that police pursuits only occur when someone in the car is actively committing a violent felony or is “a clear and immediate threat to the safety of others.

“We do not know what the written policy is for the Milwaukee County Sheriff’s office, which is required by Chapter 346 of the Wisconsin State Statutes.”

Omokunde called on Sheriff Clarke to immediately release his written guidelines for officers engaged in vehicular pursuit of suspects.

“We may have to wait for all the facts to come in regarding this incident, but we should not have to wait one more day to see the sheriff’s policies on pursuing suspects.”

Scholarships for Class of 2017 Exceed $62 Million

Number of scholarship dollars offered to MPS students is largest ever, breaking last year's record by more than $10 million

Milwaukee Public Schools recently announced another record-breaking number of scholarship dollars offered to students. The Class of 2017 received an eye-popping total of $62,742,516* in scholarships, shattering last year's record of $51 million. This is the fifth straight year, dating back to 2012 ($17 million total) that scholarship offers have increased.

"Congratulations to the Class of 2017 for breaking the record for scholarships raised. It takes hard work and determination by our scholarship winners to accomplish what they have done."

"We know for many, they could not have accomplished such feats without the support of their parents, families, school counselors, teachers and administrators," said Dr. Darlene Driver, Superintendent of Milwaukee Public Schools.

"We always have more work to do to close the achievement gap here in Milwaukee, but it is rare to have something so tangible, and this shows real progress," Driver said. "This type of work is vital to the success of Milwaukee's future workforce. Growing scholarships and better preparing all students for success in college, career and life is critical to MPS' eight Strategic Objectives, which include Rethinking High Schools."

School counselors are a critical source of support in helping students acquire scholarships. School counseling has strategically implemented new strategies to support students. This year saw the introduction of the Cash for College Campaign coordinated by school counseling, focused on connecting students with scholarships.

The Class of 2017 is the first senior class to participate in GEAR UP (Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness for Undergraduate Programs). The TEAM GEAR UP grant, a seven-year federal grant worth more than $28 million (including match dollars), is at eight high schools: Audubon, Bay View, Bradley Tech, Hamilton, Madison, Marshall, MHSA and Vincent.

An important component of the TEAM GEAR UP grant is the opportunity for MPS to create and solidify relationships with key business and community partners as well as to establish a pipeline to Wisconsin colleges and universities. Through TEAM GEAR UP, MPS has built strong partnerships with Alverno College, Cardinal Stritch University, Marquette University, Milwaukee Area Technical College, University of Wisconsin-Madison, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, and the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

Summit Credit Union announces season nine project money participants

Summit Credit Union launched the ninth year of its Project Money program this week with the announcement of its 2017 participants. Four families were selected to participate in this year's program and will compete to reduce debt and increase savings to better manage their finances and improve their daily lives.

Participants will work directly with a Summit financial coach who will provide personalized strategies and resources to make impactful change.

Culminating in February of 2018, the team that earns the most points will receive a $10,000 cash prize from Summit, while all runners-up receive $2,500. Points are rewarded for overall increase in savings, debt reduction and participation in program events.

"We created Project Money as a way for consumers to learn through the challenges and successes of our participants," says Summit Credit Union CEO & President Kim Sponem. "Our teams and coaches inspire others to take control of their finances, changing the way we spend, save, and create a positive financial future."

The 2017 Project Money participants are:

Jennifer Price: Jennifer and daughter Ashley (14) hope to overcome a slew of recent medical bills and improve their spending habits to secure a successful financial future for the long-term.

Moriah and Terrance Harney: As a respiratory therapist for nearly 20 years and a personal trainer, these parents of 1-year-old son Daylen hope to manage two mortgages (they own a home and rent one out), while learning to be "financially married."

Karl and Heather Duncan: Karl and Heather want to use their combined salaries to set (and achieve) more financial goals between working full-time and managing their three teenage daughters' busy schedules.

Venus Washington: A fitness entrepreneur, part-time teacher and track coach, Venus hopes to pay off credit card and student loan debt, grow her business and eventually buy a new home for her and 7-year-old daughter Madison.

Throughout Project Money's duration, participants will share their journey with the greater community through Summit's Money Smarts blog and on its Facebook and Twitter pages. Additionally, Project Money participants will appear live in studio on Madison's NBC15 with Anchor Leigh Mills to discuss their challenges, wins and motivations throughout the program.

Kamala Harris has the mic now, so everybody needs to sit down

Sessions: I don't recall that — Sessions should be nervous, because if there's any justice, Sessions and his boss will one day be on lockdown in one of the prisons they plan to send all the black folks, while Kamala Harris will someday become president of the United States.

Back to the hearing. At some point, Harris was on the attack, Sessions was floundering, and the white men decided they had enough.

Because the last thing Republican senators will tolerate is a black woman sassing a white man. "Chairman, the witness should be allowed to answer the question," said Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.). Sen. Richard Burr (R-N.C.), the committee chair, addressed Sen. Harris: "Senators will allow the Chair to control the hearing. Senator Harris, let him answer."

This was the second hearing in as many weeks where Burr had interrupted Harris. On June 7, Harris pressed Deputy Attorney General Rod Rosenstein on whether he would give Special Counsel Robert Mueller full independence in his investigation of collusion between Trump and Russia in the election.

Rosenstein: Senator, I'm very sensitive about time and I'd like to have a very lengthy conversation and explain that all to you.

Harris: Can you give me a 'yes or no' answer?

Rosenstein: It's not a short answer, senator.

Harris: It is. Either you are willing to do that or you are not.

Once again, Senators McCain and Burr interrupted Harris:

McCain: Mr. Chairman, they should be allowed to answer the question.

Harris: Are you willing or are you not willing to give him the authority to be fully independent of your ability, statutorily or legally, to fire him? Rosenstein: He has the...

Harris: "Yes or no, sir. Are you willing to do..."

Burr: Will the senator suspend? The chair is going to exercise its right to allow the witnesses to answer the question, and the committee is on notice to provide the witnesses the courtesy, which has not been extended all the way across, extend the courtesy for questions to get answered.

Harris: Mr. Chairman, respectfully,

"Despite her white male colleagues cutting off the only woman of color on the committee, Kamala Harris has been persistent in interrogating witnesses and making them sweat."

I would point out that this witness has joked, as we all have, his ability to filibuster.

Burr: The senator will suspend. Mr. Rosenstein, would you like to thoroughly answer the question?

Despite her white male colleagues cutting off the only woman of color on the committee, Kamala Harris has been persistent in interrogating witnesses and making them sweat.

When fired FBI director James Comey testified, Harris managed to inject brilliant humor with her dead-serious questioning about Russia and Trump's reasons for firing him: "In my experience of prosecuting cases," Harris said, "when a robber held a gun to somebody's head and said, 'I hope you will give me your wallet,' the word 'hope' was not the most operative word at that moment."

Black excellence and professionalism in the Obama White House has given way to white supremacy and incompetence under Trump. Someone in the Senate must keep these mediocre cats in line.

Thurgood Marshall

THIS WEEK IN BLACK HISTORY...

June 13, 1967 Thurgood Marshall was nominated to become the first African American on the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lawmakers express sympathies to those shot at congressional baseball practice

"As we send our love and support to those involved, let us acknowledge the heroes that have emerged from this tragic incident, from the first responders and the brave men and women of the Capitol Police to the bystanders who called 9-1-1 and the members of Congress who sprung to action to save lives.

"Their valor in the face of danger deserves nothing short of our upmost praise and gratitude.

"I have no illusion as to how politically divided we are. Yet, every day in Congress, Democrats and Republicans work together. We govern together.

"When one of us is attacked, we grieve together. And I have full confidence that together, we will be able to heal, support one another, and weather this storm."

Johnson echoed the congresswoman in sending her thoughts and prayers to those injured in the attack.

"Far too often, news and images of gun violence ravage our communities and cause unnecessary pain and despair.

"Whether on a baseball field, in a nightclub, on our streets, or in our classrooms, everyone deserves the right to live freely without the threat of being shot or a victim of violence.

"As public servants across the political spectrum, I believe we all love our community and hope we can work together to ensure that our neighbors and families are safe and secure from senseless gun violence."

A congressional staffer, Zach Barth, was also shot in the leg and has since been released from the hospital. Matt Mika, a lobbyist for Tyson Foods and former staffer, was also identified as one of the victims.

He was out of surgery and in critical condition as of Wednesday afternoon, according to a statement from his family.
